

[0063]

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0064] A signal conductor includes first and second connectors connected to the ends of a cable. The second connector includes a signal processing element that processes signals transmitted between the first and second connectors. In another implementation consistent with the principles of the invention, the signal processing element is located in a patch panel connected to the signal conductor.

[illegible]